

Bio Chris Blache Eng

Chris Blache, a socio-ethno consultant, co-founded Genre et Ville in 2012 with urban designer and planner, Pascale Lapalud. She studied Psychology at Paris' University, then left for NYC in the United States where she graduated from the Conservatory of Music. Back in France, she obtained a MBA degree at ESCP/EAP, Paris. She created and managed 9A+ Consulting from 1997 to 2012.

An accomplished business and socio-ethno consultant with proven success and expertise in international market research and business innovation she is actively involved in women and LGBTI rights since 2008.

Coordinator of Genre et Ville, she manages the organization and the projects.

Genre et Ville is a Think and Do Tank. It literally means Gender and the City.

The organization is based in Paris. Its main goal is to analyze and question Urban Planning through a Gender lens, while working with city boards and government administrations, to promote new planning, organization and practices in urban space and architecture.